CONSERVATION BULLETIN INDEX

Index to Conservation Bulletin Nos 1-30 and Supplements (1987 to 1996)

by Cherry Lavell

Issue numbers are given in bold, so that 18.16-17, 22 indicates pages 16-17 and 22 of issue 18; 22 suppl (with page numbers where they exist) signifies supplements stapled into (in one case separate from) the issue noted. Figures or tables are denoted by 'Fig' or 'Tab' following the relevant page number; there may also be textual reference at that point. STRS preceding an issue and page reference indicates the three issues of the Scientific and Technical Review supplement.

Buildings are listed under their own names (eg Abbey Brewery, Malmesbury) unless they are better identified by the name of their town (eg Ludlow, 14-15 King Street). Generic entries (eg abbeys, castles) are only given for sites that form the subject or a substantial part of an article, for instance Stokesay Castle; generic entries have not been made for sites or buildings noted on the 'Grants Offered' pages of the Bulletin, though such sites are entered under their own names, eg Dairy Farm Barn, with a reference from the town or village. London entries have been divided into 'Greater London' and 'London (central)': the latter's limits have been somewhat widely drawn.

Indexing is not exhaustive, ie passing mentions are not normally indexed; and the Corporate Plan supplements in issues 9, 12, and 15 have not been indexed in detail. Aspects of English Heritage policy are to be sought under specific entries, eg Buildings at Risk. Acts of Parliament (and other regulations) to which reference might be needed are entered under their titles, with cross-references from legislation. It did not appear worth while to break down long 'strings' of entries for a few authors, for whom it is quicker to search by topic written about. Book reviews are entered by title, author, and name of reviewer, but simple announcements of books published are given title entries only, plus date of publication where given. Advance notices of conferences, symposia, exhibitions, and the like are not indexed, though any resultant publications are entered. The filing order is letter by letter, discounting minor words such as prepositions.
